

My Village News

FEBRUARY 2026

Delivered FREE to over 10,000
homes and businesses

Hello and a warm welcome to the February 2026 My Village News. 19 years ago we were making plans and speaking to potential customers and contacts to join our new venture; a community magazine serving local villages. The first magazine was delivered out in May 2007. Looking back to those early days we still retain some of our very first contacts and advertisers.

Dave Trevor contacted MVNews asking us to publish his article "A Well-Meaning Investigation" about an exploration of Beaston Castel well that took place in 1935 - 36. He is hoping to hear from readers who might be able to help provide further photos or stories from within their community or family history linked to the project.

We very nearly had a white Christmas, the snow arrived just a few days late. Our snowy front page was taken by Jo Parsons in Peckforton

See you when we are out and about

A well meaning investigation.Dave Trevor

Volunteering with The Sandstone Ridge Trust during their Beneath The Ridge landscape archaeology survey and more recently with English Heritage at Beeston Castle has prompted my interest in an unusual story. Beeston Castle's well was explored during 1935-36 by members of ICI Winnington's workforce, an endeavour that also involved local people from Bunbury, Beeston, and further afield.

At a meeting in late 1934 the ICI team's leaders decided to investigate the well as a weekend activity to find a hidden tunnel, which according to local folklore ran between the well bottom and Beeston Hall. Inevitably the press also cited Beeston's treasure legends, but the team's main goal was the tunnel, and among its members were some experienced potholers.

The well had reputedly been emptied in 1842 by Peckforton estate workers undertaking general improvements ordered by John Tollemache, including the construction of Peckforton Castle. An enigmatic third-hand account of a draughty tunnel and a depth of 116.5 yards from nearly a century before had spurred the ICI team into action, but the well was no longer empty. In the intervening years nearly 40 tons of rubble had been thrown back down the 300+ foot shaft, often by visitors to the annual village Festival that was held at the castle.

The project taxed the team's scientific, engineering and potholing skills, and filled many weekends. Various means of raising buckets of excavated rubble were devised, including muscle power, a hired horse, and a visiting cycling club who'd rather rashly offered to help. They also employed a battered old Morris Bullnose attached to one end of a 400ft cable and driven down the outer ward with deflated rear tyres and two people clinging to its back end to improve traction(!)

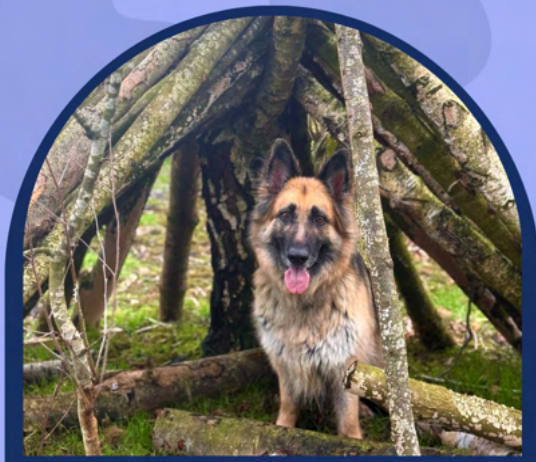

Did they reach their goal? Not exactly – they recorded three tunnels of uncertain age in the well shaft. Two short tunnels near the well bottom, and higher up a longer tunnel with a corner and a collapsed roof that was too dangerous to explore further. It was not heading to Beeston Hall. By early 1936 at a measured depth of 113 yards the well began to fulfil its original purpose and started collecting water again. A few yards short of their target the ICI team stopped digging and departed, leaving castle visitors free to continue lobbing rocks down it.

Nobody has since been as far down the well as Dr Reginald Gibson, who on 26th April 1936 had deposited a vacuum sealed flask at the bottom of the well containing the team members' names, before signalling to his colleagues in the wellhouse to haul him back to the surface.

Can you help? Was a member of your community or family part of this project?

PFPS

Wealth Management Ltd

Now the dust has settled on the Autumn Budget, there were plenty of changes buried in the small print that didn't get much attention but could still affect people in several ways. We look at some of the smaller but relevant announcements that could impact your personal finances.

Freezing income tax thresholds

National insurance (NI) and income tax thresholds have been frozen for an extra three years beyond 2028, dragging more people into higher bands over time.

The decision to freeze income tax thresholds for a further three years – until April 2031 – is expected to raise £23 billion for the government over the period, according to the Office for Budget Responsibility (OBR).

The move creates fiscal drag, which means as people's wages go up, they will be pulled into paying higher rates of income tax. It also means more workers will be caught in the so-called "60% tax trap".

Freezing the inheritance tax (IHT) threshold

Reeves also opted to put the IHT threshold in the deep freeze for a further year. This means the nil-rate band remains at £325,000 and the residence nil-rate band is unchanged at £175,000 until April 2031.

According to the OBR, IHT will raise £9.1 billion for the Treasury in 2025-26.¹ These revenues are expected to rise every year given that assets tend to go up in value – while the tax-free allowances remain static.

Reducing tax relief on venture capital trusts (VCTs)

The government is reducing the income tax relief that can be claimed by a VCT investor from 30% to 20%, from April 2026. The measure is expected to save the government £315 million from 2027-28 to 2029-30.² Critics of the move are concerned that cutting tax relief could undermine the incentive to invest in VCTs and therefore slow investment in start-ups and small companies.

Alongside this, the government also announced it was introducing higher limits for investing in VCTs and enterprise investment schemes (EISs) to allow investment into more mature businesses.

Ending the lifetime ISA

As part of a reform of the individual savings account (ISA) landscape, the government will publish a consultation early next year on a new, simpler ISA product to support first-time buyers.

This ISA will replace the existing lifetime ISA, which offers a £4,000 annual allowance for people saving to buy their first home or for retirement.

The Budget document revealed that annual subscription limits will remain at £20,000 for ISAs, £4,000 for lifetime ISAs and £9,000 for Junior ISAs and child trust funds until 5 April 2031.

Note that there will be a new cash ISA limit for the under-65s from April 2027.

Hiking savings, property and dividend taxes

Reeves also chose to hike taxes in her Budget, by increasing the tax rates on dividends, property and savings income.

From April 2026, the ordinary tax rate on dividend income will rise from 8.75% to 10.75%, and the higher rate from 33.75% to 35.75%. The additional rate will remain unchanged at 39.35%.

A year later – from April 2027 – savings and property income tax will rise for each band of taxpayers. So, basic-rate taxpayers will pay 22%, higher-rate taxpayers will pay 42% and additional-rate taxpayers will face a 47% tax.

The move could hit savers, investors and buy-to-let landlords hard. It means pensions and ISAs will become even more important at protecting people's money from the taxman, while another tax hike on landlords could give them another reason to sell up and quit the property market.

Transferring unused IHT agricultural and business property reliefs

The £1 million allowance for the 100% rate of agricultural property relief and business property relief will be transferrable to surviving spouses and civil partners from April 2026, even if the first death occurred before then.

This announcement follows last year's change to business and agriculture IHT rules, where the government cut the rate of relief on assets qualifying for business property relief or agricultural property relief from 100% to 50%.

The latest move means one half of a couple could now benefit from relief of £2 million.

Cutting tax breaks for home workers

Employees who work from home will no longer be able to claim tax relief on expenses related to additional household costs not reimbursed by the employer. This rule takes effect on 6 April 2026.

The government said it was removing the tax break due to concerns around non-compliance, given that half of the claims were ineligible for relief.

Imposing electric car taxes

Drivers of electric and plug-in hybrid cars will face higher bills from April 2028. In a move that had been widely expected, the government is introducing a new mileage charge for electric and plug-in hybrid vehicles, where drivers will pay for their mileage alongside their existing vehicle excise duty.

Electric car drivers will pay an extra 3p per mile and hybrid car drivers will pay 1.5p per mile.

Get to grips with the Budget changes

The government has published a huge number of tax reviews, policy papers and consultations as part of Autumn Budget 2025. We can shine a light on which changes are relevant to you – and help you protect and grow your wealth tax-efficiently. If you'd like further detail please contact us on 01948 805688.

The value of an investment with St. James's Place will be directly linked to the performance of the funds selected and may fall as well as rise. You may get back less than the amount invested.

The levels and bases of taxation, and reliefs from taxation, can change at any time and are generally dependent on individual circumstances.

Please note that Cash and Lifetime ISAs are not available through St. James's Place.

Radfield Home Care Tarporley & Mid Cheshire: Bringing Personalised Care Closer to Home

Since opening last year, Radfield Home Care Tarporley & Mid Cheshire has supported local families navigating the challenge of helping older parents remain independent, connected, and well supported. Guided by the Radfield 'Be There' promise, the team focuses on helping people stay true to themselves, remain socially connected, and continue enjoying life on their own terms.

Led by Robert Dancy, the local care team is rooted in the community and shaped by a clear understanding of family needs. Support is designed to ease pressure on relatives while ensuring older people feel respected and heard. Time is taken to understand routines, preferences, and priorities, with services shaped through open and collaborative conversations.

From 4 February 2026, Radfield Home Care Tarporley & Mid Cheshire will introduce an adult day care service in the local region, operating every week. Designed to complement support at home, the service offers a calm, structured day with social connection, nutritious meals, and engaging activities, all supported by trained Care Professionals.

The team is proud to help people across the community remain active, engaged, and independent, and welcomes conversations with families exploring day care or home support options.

Our speaker on February 12th is Eddie Roberts a self confessed galanthophile, (snowdrop addict) who will speak to us about Snowdrops. They are already flowering in my garden and are a welcome sight. Collecting them can be highly addictive, but can seriously harm your pocket with some fetching £1000 a bulb. This meeting is also your chance to renew your membership and collect your membership card. Malpas Flower Club February Report

Our Flower Club has had a very busy few months, with some spectacular demonstrations.

We enjoyed a busy and festive December with our ever popular 'Soup and Pudding Event' drawing a wonderful turnout of members. Our January Demonstration was by the very talented Louise Jones from Wallasey where she inspired us with her flowers entitled "Back to the Future".

For our February Monthly Meeting we will be welcoming Jane Tully from Welshpool to be held at the Jubilee Hall on Monday 16th February at 2pm.

If you are free, do come and join us for an afternoon filled with flowers, friendly chat and a good cuppa! See our Facebook Page for further details, or contact, Janet Blake on 01948 860359

Malpas Chess Player Charles Higgle played in the Irish Seniors chess tournament in Dublin January 1st to 4th. Although he is 68 years old and so could have played in the aged 65 and above section, he sportingly agreed to play in the aged 50 and over section so that both sections had an even number of competitors. He was the second highest rated player in the 12 man section, and finished equal 3rd, meaning he took home 50 Euros in prize money as half of the 100 Euro prize prize for third place. Charles scored 3 wins, 2 draws and 2 losses.

For further details visit <https://s1.chess-results.com/tnr1326672.aspx?lan=1&art=4&SNode=S0>

The Malpas School of Chess continues to meet 6pm to 7pm at The Lion@ Malpas every Thursday. The chess element is completely free. For further details contact Charles on higglecharles@gmail.com or telephone 01948 860083 or Charles Chessman Higgle on Facebook.

We shall be back in the W.I hall on Monday, 16 February 2026 for our February meeting when we shall be delighted to welcome Linda Williams from Mount Wines, a newly opened Boutique vineyard set on a hillside overlooking the Dee valley and the picturesque village of Bangor Isycoed (Bangor on Dee).

What began in 2013 as a hobby for retirees David and Linda Williams, has blossomed into a beautiful vineyard producing an elegant, sparkling rose wine with hints of summer berries and a crisp, refreshing finish. Perfect for any occasion and a great gift!

Linda will share the story of her and David's vineyard and the captivating story of their inspiring journey from hobbyists to establishing and running a growing business.

We meet for a 7:30 pm start in the Chorlton and Cuddington WI hall on Chorlton Lane, SY14 7EP and look forward to seeing you there. Visitors are always very welcome.
